YOUNG DEMOCRACY

AT THE HELM OF THE NATIONAL ADMINISTRATION.

The Youngest Cabinet on Record and Other Young officials—The New Watch Dog of the Treas-uty—Kentucky Politics—The New Sen-ator from Delaware—Other Gossip.

WASHINGTON, March 20 .- [Special.]-Young men seem to be in favor with the administration. Cleveland is the youngest of our presidents except Grant, who was eighteen months younger when he was inaugurated. The cabinet is much the youngest that ever assembled about a president. Its veteran is Mr. Lamar. who is still considerably this side of sixty and in the best health he has had for years. Whitney is just forty, while Manning and Vilas are both nearer forty than fity. Mr. Miller, of West Virginia, the new commissioner of internal revenue, is only thirty-seven-just the age of Mr. Kenna, the boy senator from that state. Mr. Hay, of Pennsylvania, the first assistant postmastergeneral, and Mr. Montgomery, of Michigan, the commissioner of patents, are both young

President Cleveland, in selecting the men who are to bear the brunt of the heavy work which must fall upon his administration, looks to physical fitness as well as to mental and moral qualifications. He knows what work is. The general public has no idea what he has gone through in the past two weeks. I saw him at eleven o'clock the other night bending over a desk like a bookkeeper, with the calm look and easy manner of a man whose powers of endurance had suffered no strain. If this administrafrom shall have sins to answer for sloth will not be among them. Every department is going to be overhauled from top to bottom, and by the time he comes to the end of this term Grover Cleveland will know more about the condition of this government than any man has known for many a year.

THE NEW WATCHDO of the treasury has the keen seent for defective draughts upon the public purse, for which Judge Lawrence was famous without the factious spirit and disagreeable temper for which Judge Lawrence was equally famous. Judge Durham stood well in congress during the three terms he served here. He was defeated for the nomination to the forty-sixth congress by Phil Thompson, then thirty-four years old, and considered the rising young lawyer of Kentucky. Thompson served three terms in congress, an active, ambitious member, with derable influence, and last year was defeated in the convention by ex-Governor J. B. McCreary, a cousin to the old senator from Reducky who was a unique and interesting figure in Washington a few years ago. McCreary became instrumental in the appointment of Judge Durham, though Durham was cardidate for the expensional nemination. a candidate for the congressional nomination sgainst him. Thus just at the time when things are bad for Thompson, who is just forty, his old rival is rescued from six years retirement and elevated toone of the most important offices in the government. This may mean something further. McCreary is a strong man, and the prospective loader of the Kentucky delegation in the house. He is a bold and successful politician. After a rest from participation in public affairs in Kentucky for several years he has re-entered politics with every qualification for success. As to the fitness of his friend Judge Durbam for the first comptrollership, it must be said that his characteristics of over-esution and his scrupulous regard for technicalities may sometimes prove annoying, but if they are faults they are on the safe side. The power of the first comptroller is supreme in many matters. In the Trezevant claim case for instance there was a bill passed by congress and approved by the president to pay Georgia. and approved by the president to pay Georgia a large sum of money. The comptroller re-fused to pay it because he said he thought it should be credited to the charge against Georgia for land tax. The president wanted the money paid over to the state, and he asked the attorney general if the comptroller had the attorney general if the comptroller had decided correctly. The attorney general looked into the case and delivered a learned opinion that the comptroller was wrong and that the claim ought to be paid When the comptroller received the opin credited the amount to his charge against Georgia and remarked that the claim was paid. That was the end of it, and there is no appeal from the decision of this officer. No wonder he is called "the watch dog of the Democratic senators are highly gratified at Democratic senators are highly gratified at the election of George Grey to take the seat left vacant by Mr. Bayard. Mr. Grey is already well known in Washington as a man with qualifications for high positions in the senate. He is another young man to the front. It is comparatively rare that you find a senator under fifty. Mr. Grey is forty-five. His election was the victory of the Bayard-clan over the Saulsburys, but the country outside of little Delaware will pay no attention to that feature of his success. Grey's election and the choice of General Walthall in Mississippi place two new men of great promise in sippi place two new men of great promise in the senate. If Arkansas will send a first-class man, the apprehension that the removal of Bayard, Lamar, and Garland to cabinet honors would embarrass the democratic side of the senate will have no justification. Arkansas people tell me that some of their ablest men have no gone into politics since the war, and that the mere politicisms have had their own way for the most part, in distributing offices out there.

It is now a good time to bring out one of the modest big men of that state and send him to take the chair left by Mr. Garland. It will take a big man to fill it.

A NOTABLE GATHERING.

The War Veterans to Reassemble on the Field of Gettysburg.

Washington, March 20.—The president has accepted the invitation of the veterans of the first and other corps to visit the battlefield of Cettysburg, when they make their historical visit there on the fourth and fifth of May. He assures Goyernor Curtin that he would $20 unless prevented by some urgent presents. go unless prevented by some urgent necessity of the public service. If that occurs, due notice will be given, but Governor Curtin, who is chairman of the invitation committee, says he does not believe that anything will prevent the president from going, as he is anx-leus to be on the field when the leading gen-erals of both armies are there to explain their erals of both armies are there to explain their movements. J. H. Stine, historian of the first corps, says the governors of the states which furnished the troops for that battle, are also invited, and so far not a single declination has been received. Governor Curtin is anxious to have all of the war governors there, and ex-Governor Kirkwood, of Iowa, and Sprague, of Rhode Island, have replied that they are coming. With the president and his cabinet, the governors and war governors and the veterans of both armies, who fought there, it promises to be a notable event.

CLEVELAND ON CIVIL SERVICE. Some of the Replies Which He Makes to Importuning Office Seekers.

Washington, March 20.—President Cleveland's sayings have a striking resemblance to some of Mr. Lincoln's. Indeed, people are tracing wherein the two resemble each other. For instance, the other day half a dozen good and true democrats from a western state went to the white house to see the president about certain offices they had come for. There was perfect agreement among themselves and all they wanted was to have Mr. Cleveland agree with them. Of his doing so they had little doubt when he had heard them state their dout when he had heard them state their case. They were admitted and a hearty handshaking followed. Then the spokesman of the party spoke up.

"You see," said he, "we're all democrats, hard workers for the party, and have concluded that these offices would be about the fair thing. We're all agreed about the business and would like to have it done up right soon."

Mr. Convolund listened attentively as they Mr. Cleveland listened attentively as they all rpoke around. When they had done he spoke.

They all spoke up: "Two years."
"Two years," repeated the president, musingly, immediately adding: "Come and see me then!" To a democrat who was importunate in his demand for a certain office now held by a re-

ess, the president, after listening for the third time to the story, said:

AN OFFICER RESTORED.

A Little Matter in which Virginia's Traitor

Senator Had No Say. Washington, March 20.—Secretary Whitney has rectified one of the worst results of Mahone's intolerance by putting Commander Rodney Evans back in charge of the Baltimore lighthouse inspection district, whence he had been removed by Mahone's arbitrary orders. Evans is one of the most plucky officers in the navy. Evans believes that a navy officer should work for his pay, and was never easy while stationed in Washington with while stationed in Washington with nothing to do. The Balti-more district is one of the most important on more district is one of the most important on the coast, extending from Baltimore to Hat-teras, and while he was in charge of it Evans did some courageous work, notably the setting up of a permanently lighted buoy off Cape Hatters in the midst of a terrific storm. Off Hatters in the midst of a terrific storm. Off the capes of Virginia there was a lighthouse for which Mahone had received an appointment as keeper for one of his colored politicians. Evans, in inspecting the district, found that this man was in the habit of going on shore and getting drunk, and after several warnings he removed him. Mahone was very every and calling on Evans. demanded that on shore and getting drunk, and after several warnings he removed him. Mahone was very angry, and, calling on Evans, demanded that the man be restered.

"No, sir. That man is liable to get drunk any day and not light his light. That would, in all probability, lead to the loss of a vessel, and probably lives. I will not have such amen in a district where I am responsible."

To Evans's astonishment, for he is no politician, Mahone threatened him with removal unless the man was restored, but he did not scare Evans. The commander said that he would rather resign his office as commander than be compelled to keep a drunken lighthousekeeper. A few days after he was summoned to Washington and urged by Secretary Chandler to accede to Mahone's wishes. Evans could herdly restrain his wrath that a secretary of the navy should be willing for an instant to retain such a person in government employ. He declined to reinstate the man, and Secretary Chandler at once relieved him from duty. Secretary Whitney appears to have seid promptly as soon as he learned and Secretary Chandlor at once refered that from duty. Secretary Whitney appears to have acted promptly as soon as he learned the facts, and without any political motive, for Commander Evans belongs to neither

BUFNING OF THE EMMETSBURG CONVENT.

Away—The Fatal Burning of a washington Territory Hotel—Destructive Fires and Fatalities Elsewhere—Etc., Etc.

BALTIMORE, March 20 .- An Emmettsburg, Md., special 'says: St. Joseph's academy a this place is on fire. The fire originated in the kitchen and had reached the roof. The building is a large structure, and the facilities for extinguishing a fire are very limited. The fire is now beyond control, and there is every probability of the entire destruction of the building. St. Joseph's is the mother house of the sisters of charity, and it is one of the finest buildings of its kind in the United States. It covers a very large area, and its destruction will be a serious loss to the sisters.

LATER DETAILS RECEIVED. The following details have been received. At noon to-day fire was discovered in the kitchen of the building, occupied by the sisters of charity, at St. Joseph's academy, at Emmetisburg, and in a very short time the entire building was in flames. The greatest consternation prevailed; but, as the building where the children of the academy were kept, was some distance off, and the wind set the flames in an opposite direction, all the children and young ladies were removed to a place of safety. All the male inhabitants of Emmettsburg, including the seminaries and professors of Mount St. Mary's college, went to aid the sisters of charity, but the means for extinguishing the fre were so limited that little could be done. The house in which the fire occurred was in the kitchen of the building, occupied by the sisters house in which the fire occurred was in the northeast section of a cluster of buildings, and a high wind from the northwest kept the fire from the principal structure. Aid was asked from Frederick City, and its. fire department went by special train, reaching the scene of the confisgration in time to render effective service in protecting the houses which the fire bad not reached. Aid was also asked from Baltimore, but the distance is so great that fully three hours would be required to get the engines there, and that would have been too ate to do any good.

THE EXTENT OF THE DAMAGE.

The sister's department is entirely destroy-The sister's department is entirely destroy-ed tegether with another large structure, in-volving a damage of $50,000, which is fully covered by insurance. The fact of the fire raging spread through this city, and caused the greatest alarm, as there are many chil-dren in school from Baltimore, and telegrams were so vague and unsatisfactory that the excitement was not allayed the excitement was not allayed until to night, when the safety of the children was definitely ascertained. St. Joseph's is the mother house of the sisters of charity of the United States, and among its immates are many who, in their old age, have returned to spend the remnant of their lives in the home of their early sisterhood.

Incendiary Flames in Petersburg. PETERSBURG, Va., March 20.—Early this morning a fire broke out in the rear of the drug store of W. H. Camp, on Sycamore street, which was consumed with its contents. The flames soon communicated to the large brick building owned by John W. Bradlaury, hardware merchant. The first and second floors of the building, occupied by C. R. Rees, photographer, were burned, and the stock of goods on the lower floor, belonging to Brad-laury, was badly damaged by water. The building belonging to Camp was valued at $10,000 and his stock at $8,000. The building owned by Bradlaury was valued at $14,000 and the stock at $10,000. The total insurance is about $30,000. The fire is supposed to have been incendiary.

Burned to Death in Bridgeport, BRIDGEFORT, Conn., March 20.—The large double house in East Bridgeport, occupied by Mrs. John Waller as a boarding house, was burned this morning. Mrs. Waller, who slept on the second floor, was burned to death. Jerome Bowen, a boarder, is missing, and is supposed to have met a similar fate. George Ruthford, an old fireman, while endeavoring to rescue Mrs. Waller, was horribly burned about the face and hands. Mrs. Waller's four children and several boarders barely es-caped with their lives. Nothing was saved but the night clothes they were. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

TRADE AND LABOR. The Failures for the Week Throughout the United States. New York, March 20.—The business failures throughout the country during the last week, as reported to R. G. Dun & Co.'s mercantile agency, number, for the United States, 231, and for Canada 27, total 258, against 282 last week, and 277 the week previous. More than two-thirds of the whole number in this secretary are foundable by the southern. country are furnished by the southern, western and Pacific states. In New York city the failures are very light, and in Canada are decreasing.

The Telegraph Strike.

New York, March 20.—The strike of the operators of the Bankers and Merchants' telegraph company has been temporarily suspended, and the men have returned to their tables. Receiver Butler, of the company, met the men this morning, and they stated their demands, which were that 20 per cent of the saleries due for February should be paid on Saturday, and that the saleries for March be peid on the 23d inst. Butler told the men that such action on his part would be impossible that if they would trust until the end of the month he would see that they were paid, or month he would see that they were paid, or he would go out with them at that time. This proposition was accepted, and the men reurned to work.

The Coal Strike Extending, PITISBURG, PA., March 20.—The miners employed by the New York and Cleveland coal company, made a demand yesterday of three ceats per bushel for mining. The company refused to pay the advance, and will shut down their works on Monday. Over one thousand men are employed at these mines. The strike for three cents is now nearly general and fully tan thousand miners are idle. eral, and fully ten thousand miners are idla. Coal for local consumption is very scarce, and prices have been advanced one-half cent per bushel.

Effected by the Strike. STEUBENSVILLE, O., March 20.—The Spalding iron works, at Brilliant, near here, were completely shut down because of the coal miners' strike. Three hundred and fifty men are idb.

THE CIVIL SERVICE RULES. The Appointment of Higgins Raises an Interesting Question.

WASHINGTON, March 20 .- A misapprehension appears to exist in regard to the office of the chief of the appointment division of the treasury department. The present incumbent of the office, Trevatt, tendered his resignation about two weeks ago, and it was accepted by Secretary Manning, to take effect April 1, and Trevatt was granted leave of absence till that date. In the meantime Eugene Higgins, of Baltimere, was given a position on the "fraud roll" of the special agent's division, and assigned to duty as acting chief of the appointment division, and it is understood that he is promised the office as soon as Trevatt's resignation shall have taken effect.

The question has arisen in connection with this office, which is receiving careful attention, and which in its settlement is liable to disarrange. and which in its settlement is liable to disarrange or perhaps rearrange the civil service rules in relation to officers under the government, and which may prevent Higgins from receiving the appointment to the office for which he has been selected. The civil service commissioners hold that only those government officers are exempt from the provisions of the civil service set who are nominated by the president and confirmed by the senate, and a few minor cases of officials holding positions of financial or fiduciary nature, yet by rule 19 of the civil service rules, the chiefs of divisions or bureaus are exempted from examination. The chiefs of bureaus are nominated by the president, but the chiefs of divisions are not, and right here is the hitch. here is the hitch.

The apparent inconsistency is said to have been the result of the opposition of certain prominent officials under the late administration to a thorough application of the civil service laws. The chiefs of bureaus in the state department are of equal rank with the chiefs of divisions in the other departments, and if the first are to be exempted it is claimed the others should be. Before the WHY THE INCONSISTENCY EXISTS others should be. Before the close of the last administration an effort was made to secure a uniform classification in all the departments a uniform classification in all the departments in accordance with the intent of the act, as cenatrued by the civil service commission, in which the chiefs of divisions should be included. If Higgins is permanently appointed without examination to the office for which he has been selected, it is claimed that it will be in violation of the civil service law, but yet in perfect accord with the rules as published by the civil service commission.

Arkansac Elects Berry as Senator.

Springfield, Ill., March 20.—Senator Bridges, democratic member of the state senate, who suffered from a stoke of paralysis one menth ago, and whose condition ever since has been very critical, died at his home, near Sairollton, this morning. The death of Bridges, following that of Representative Logan, three weeks ago, leaves the Illinois legislative came more a tig on joint ballot.

Logan, three weeks ago, leaves the Illinois legislature once more a tie on joint ballot. In the joint assembly, 100 members auswered to roll call. The democrats alone voted. Mr. Streets voted for Stevenson, Mulheran for Ward. Haines did not vote. Morrison received 98. On the fourth ballot. Brachentendorfehanged to J. J. Curran; Considine to Black; Mahony to Harrison, and Marshall to Palmer. This reduced Morrison's vote to 94. On the fifth ballot Dormau voted for Curran; Quinn for Lawler, and Haines for Merritt. On the sixth ballot Morrison received 90, Ward 2, Black 1, Lawler 2, Downs 1, Stevenson 1, Palmer 1, Merritt 2. The seventh and eighth ballots were the same as the sixth, and the joint assembly adjourned.

MORRISON GROWS DESPONDENT.

Governor Oglesby to-day issued a writ calling for an election in place of State Senator Bridges, to take place in the thirty-seventh district, Saturday, April 11. A large number of members are leaving for home to-night, and it is not expected that any business will be done to morrow. Mr. Morrison is reported to he in a very deependant proof to-night over done to morrow. Mr. Morrison is reported to be in a very despondent mood to night over the death of Bridges. Speaker Haines told an associated press reporter to night that before he could be expected to support Morrison or any other democratic candidate for election, the lies which have been told about himself and Streeter will have to be taken back. His personal reputation has been injured, and he proposes to have it righted. It is said that Judge Powell is a possible candidate for Senator Bridges's place.

Running in a Temperance Man.

Dixon, Ill., March 20.—Captain John C.

McKenzie, of Fulton, Whitehead county, has been nominated by the prohibitionists for representative from the 19th senatorial district to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon.

R. E. Legan. The nomination is looked upon with distrust by the republicans, who alieve the democrate have been fused with the prohibitionists. McKenzie states, however, that he is not running in a challion with the democratic party, and also says that if elected he will vote for neither Logan nor Morrison, but will vote for some temperance republican.

GENERAL GRAHAM'S REPORT. General Graham telegraphs as follows:

General Graham telegraphs as follows:

Hanken, March 20, 3:30 p. m.—We moved out from camp at 6:15 this morning, leaving the Shropshire regiment to guard it. On reaching the first hill at 8:30 a.m. we found the enemy had retired and occupied another hill a mile and a quarter distant. After a short halt the Shropshire regiment and the marines were ordered to clear the hill, the Indian contispent and the guards supporting. This was done very effectually, the enemy being driven off the ridge, and streaming south toward Tamai. We charged by the squadrous of Indian lancers in the bush. The cavairy then retired toward the guards at the foot of the hill and made for the hill west of Hasheen. In a valley these were shelled by the Boyal horse artillery, while the other parties moving round our right were engaged in the bush by the Fith lancers. Meanwhile a zareba with four entrenched pos s on the hill commanding it, is being fer red. The advanced troops have all retriened to this position, and will return to our camp, leaving East Surrly regiment with two Krupp guus and four Gardners and water knaps and signal appliances at the entrenched positions. Our khed are two officers and two men of the British and five Sepoys. The wounded are two officers and two men of the British and five Sepoys. The natives report that numbers of Osman Digna's men are deserting, having become disheartened. To-day's fighting was noticeably different in character from that of any preceding engagement. The Arabs maintains a steady riffe fire, retriring slowly from each position held by them, and avoiding close quarters.

Another account of to-day's battle is as follows:

SUAKIM, March 20.—The battle between the British troops and Osman Digna's forces lasted five hours. The marnes were first sent to the front to drive the Arabs from the hills. As soon as possible they were reinforced by the batteries and by the cavalry. There was a hot engagement for a few hours, during which the British cavalry charged repeatedly, while the machine guns were worked with deadly effect. Great bravery was displayed on both sides. At the end of the engagement the Arabs retreated slowly toward Tamal. The Arab loss in killed and wounded is estimated at 600. The loss of the British is 40. The Arabs displayed desperate bravery. The marines drove the Arabs from the bills and forced them to retire to the plain. Then the Indian troops charged upon the Arab position, were outflanked and an unsuspected body of Arabs succeeded in getting behind their line. The Indians found themselves between two fires and they fied. During the retreat they were closely pressed by the Arabs, who hamstrung the horses and speared the riders. The Eengalese fell back in confusion upon the English infantry, and the guards, who had been formed in a hollow square, and the square leisurely retreated while the Arabs were yelling that they had regained their lost position. At this juncture the artillery came to its rescue, and a brisk fire of small shot from the machine guas, and shells from the Fupp field mortars, drove the Arabs from their position. The marines maintained a steady firing throughout the engagement, but the honors of tike day are probably due to the Lirish lancers, who changed the tide of battle by a desperate charge, and reprieved the fortunes of General Graham's command, when they seemed almost hopeless. The British troops returned to their former camp near Suakim.

THE RESULT OF THE FIGHT.

General Graham telegraphs General Welse-ley that the result of the operations has been to establish a strong position commanding the Hasheen valley, and protecting the right flank and communications in the ensuing operation against Tamsi. All portions of the force, he says, worked admirably on very difficult ground, covered with high thorn bushes, and occupied by a determined enemy, showing that the troops are able to master the bushes, and occupied by a determined enemy, showing that the troops are able to master the Arabs in any position.

At 1 o'clock the country appeared clear of rebels, and the British were about to withdraw to the heights when a number of the enemy appeared, and firing was renewed. It is estimated that the enemy lost 600 men. In the enceunter with the Bengal cavalry the Arabs pursued their old tactics of lying down and then springing up suddenly and hamstringing the horses of the British. The Arabs are unequalled as skirmishers and in bush fighting. The guards captured the wounded chief of the rebels, who attacked the guard. While the British were withdrawing after one o'clock, to their fortified positions in the hills, the rebels kept swarming around, concealing themselves in the bushes and making the progress of the British with their baggage difficult. An incessant firing was maintained until the troops reached the open plain, and the fortified ridge at 5 o'clock, greatly oxhausted with their long engagement under the blazing sun. The aim of the enemy was bad, had it not the British loss would have been heavy. The troops were not molested during their return march to Suakim. The total loss of the British was 11 killed and 49 wounded.

It is asserted that King Leopold has announced his intention of accepting the title of sovereign of Congo.

PRICE FIVE CENTS. DISCUSSED IN THE COMMONS.

Egypt, the Soudar, Afghanistan and Ireland all Considered.

London, March 20.—Lord Edward Fitzmaurice, under foreign secretary, in the house of commons this evening, stated in answer to a question that the government recognized the right of France to search for contraband all neutral vessels bound for China.

In the house of commons to-day, the statement that General Wolseley had been appointed governor of the Soudan was denied by Lord Edmund Fitzmaurice, who added that he was unable to impart any further information.

Gladstone, replying to interrogatories put by Sir Stafford Northcote, said that government proposed to ask the judgment of the house upon the Egyptian financial agreement on the 26th instant or at latest on 30th instant. It was tmportant, he said, that this judgment be obtained at the earliest date possible, because, as matters were at present, Egypt was just able to limp along financially. Sir Stafford Northcote, responding to the premier's reply, insisted that it proved that there was a necessity for the devotion of additional time to the study of the details of this agreement, and he gave notice that he would make a request for it on Monday next.

In the house of commons, this evening, H. Campbell Bannerman, chief secretary for Ireland, called attention to the cartoon in the United Ireland, representing Earl Spencer, lord-lieutenant of Ireland, on his death-bed, and characterized it as an offense against good taste and decency. He said the authorities did not intend, however, to prosecute the proprietors of the paper.

The blue book has just been issued concerning the correspondence between the French and English governments in connection with the declaration of rice as contraband of war by France. In a letter to Earl Granville, dated February 24, M. Waddington, French minister, stated that rice destined for Canton and the southern Chinese perts would be allowed to pass free, and that ports north of Canton would alone be affected by the prohibition.

The conservatives have made overtures to a number of liberals who are discontented with the Egyptian convention, for the formation of a coalition. Mr. Goschen refused to accept the proposition and will support the government, The radicals approve the agreement as tending to a early withdrawal of the British forces from Egypt. The government expect that the division in the house of commons on the bill to sanction the Egyptian loan will show a majority of 40 in its favor.

SCENEIN THE OPERA.

Attempt of French Journalists to Hiss an Actress Of the Stage.

Paris, March 20.—There was a sensational scene at the opera Comique this evening, when Miss Van Zandt came upon the stage as the heroine in "Lakme," Last Wednesday night she appeared in Paris for the first time since the incident of last November, when she was attacked with vertigo while singing in the "Earber of Seville." The Boulevard critics secribed her sudden iffness to intextaction, and Miss Van Zandt promptly sued them for slander. The suits are still in the hands of the lawyers, but it was believed the whole incident had been forgotten, and when Miss Van Zandt appeared last Wednesday night, she was rapturously applauded. Since then the Boulevard journalists have organized a hostile force, and this evening they had a clique stationed in the gallery of the opera Comique. As soon as Miss Van-Zandt appeared upon the stage, singing as she came, this clique began hissing with all the power of its lungs. The male portion of the audience in the lower portions of the house arose and vigorously protested against the interruption of the opera, but the uproar was so great the curtain had to be lowered. The policemen who were present ejected the disturbers, and an inspector of police came upon the stage in front of the curtain Attempt of French Journalists to Hiss an Actress Off the Stage. an inspector of police came upon the stage in front of the curtain and asked the audience if the piece abould proceed. The answer was a roar of "Ouis." The curtain was quickly rung up, Miss Van-Zandt reappeared as before, and received an ovation from the audience which left last Wednesday's demonstration quite in the shade.

The Pope L.kely to Impose An Obnoxious Primate Upon Ireland.

DUBLIN, March 20.—Bishop Donnelly has, it is reported, been summoned to Rome. The national leaguers are much excited over this report. On March 10th the Catholic clerical correlays of this even discover not and nonic report. On March 10th the Catholic clerical concleve of this arch diocese met, and nominated three candidates to succeed Cardinal McCabe in the archbishopire. Of these Bishop Donnelly was named as second choice. The other, two candidates were Dr Walsh, president of Maynorth college, dignisaimus, and Dr. Tyoon, dignus. The names were sent to Rome, and it was hoped that Dr. Walsh would be selected by the vatican, because, in addition to his great learning and virtue, his political leanings, the dector, being a moderate home ruler, endeared him to the great majority of Catholics in Ireland. Bishop Donnelly on the other hand, is a loyalist, and his election is discountenanced by the league. The nationalists tear, however, that Bishop Donnelly has been chosen at Rome for Cardinal McCabe's place, and they look upon this as another instance of the ascendency of British influence over the pope.

Criticising Bayard's Polley.

London, March 20.—The Times, in an editorial this morning, says that Secretary Bayard's policy will not be misconstrued here. No intelligent politician, the Times thinks, is likely to be alarmed lest the possession of the United States should be unduly extended to Central America, which country is less attractive to the northern people than South America. If the interference of the United States in Mexican affairs, the paper says, can restrain unfruitful conflicts in Mexico, there will be some chance of developing the resources of that country. The Terrible Story of the Godwin Tragedy-An Old Man Entertaining Eis Murderers-The Bloody Axe-Flight, Pursuit, Capture and Con-viction of the Murderers-Etc.

CAMILLA, Ga., March 20 .- [Special.]-Mose Keaton and Peter Johnson, two of the Godwin murderers, were tried here to-day. The jury have brought in a verdict of guilty of murder as to both, The courthouse has been packed with a multitude of people all day. THE STORY OF THE MURDER.

About ten miles south of Camilla, on the pub-lic road, leading from here to Cairo, is an humble country home, where lived Steven Godwin. The keeper, Mrs. Gregory, and her son, about eighteen years old. A few hundred yards distant lived Steven Godwin's brother Elick. The two brothers seemed to live in close intimacy and to have a common interest in life. At some time during last year, and previous to the date of the tragedy, Mr. Ste ven Godwin had on his premises, as an employe a negro man named Mose Keaton. On Saturday a few days before the fatal night of December 3d More called to see Mr. Godwin. The two talked about a settlement, but could not agree, and Mose

On the following Tuesday night Mose Keaton returned to Mr. Steve Godwin's house, taking with him his wife and child and one Peter Johnson. They arrived there about ten o'clock and asked that they be allowed to come in and warm, saying that they were cold. Mr. Godwin, who had retired, not tw pecting anything wrong, permitted them to come in and kindle a fire in his room, where they remained for some time talking with the former employe of Mose Keaton. Mr. Godwin then gave them the key to his ginhouse and told them they might spend the night there, and they, still avail ing themselves of the kindness of their intended victim, withdrew to the quarters assigned to them, not, it seems, to spend the night in unbroken re pose, but rather to perfect their plans and await an auspicious hour-and it may be to nerve their courage. In a few hours Mose called to Peter to get ready, but Peter, negro-like, drowsy and undistribed by the thought of what he had deter-mined to do, soon dropped off to sleep again. Mose soon made another call for his companions to get ready; and this time they returned to it. Godwin's room, carrying with them an ax and hatchet and rekindled the fire. Mr. Godwin was either not aroused or if aroused still suspected no barm. In a short time the tragedy be can and in a short time it ended. THE TRAGEDY DISCOVERED,

The next morning revealed to Mr. Elick Godwin the fate of his brother and companion. Steven Godwin was dead, his head and throat having been mutilated with an ax. Young Gregory was in another room fatally butchered but not quite dend. The old woman, Mrs. Gregory, was also still alive, but preither retained sufficient of mind to tell the tale. Mr. Gregory was able next day to make known the names of the murder

THE FLIGHT AND CAPTURE. After they had accomplished the bloody deed and a brief and fruitless search for money had een made the murderous trio hurried away tobuggy and shotgun. In their haste they left some articles of baggage, which have been identified. There was some money in the house, but they were too much frightened to find it.

After a few days' pursuit Mose and his wife were eaught near Columbus. Peter Johnson was caught in Baker county. Since their arrest the three prisoners have been occupants of Albany jail. where the above facts relative to the crime and its details have been elicited from them. Contra-dictory statements have been made as to the di-vision of the crime. The main incentive to the ssion of the deed seems to have been a derire and hope of finding money, suggested and en couraged, perhaps, by Mose Keaton's bad feeling toward Mr. Godwin because of a pending settle ment between them.

MURDER IN LOWNDES.

Two Men Pursue and Shoot Down a Thief.

VALDESTA, Ga., March 20.-[Special.]-Last Saturday night J. 1. Collins and Elsey Belote, night watchmen, attempted to arrest one Jim Conaway for making a disturbance in one of our back streets. Conaway resisted, and, drawing his knife cut Collins several times, but not seriously. He then rushed at Belote and cut his clothes up badly By this time Collins begun to fire at Conaway, when the latter took to his heels. He was closely pursued by the two night watchmen and others who joined them in the chase, being under a close fire from the pistols of four or five men. Conaway, nowever, made good his escape. THE FATAL ENCOUNTERS.

Early next morning Collins and Belote armed themselves with a double barrel gun each and left town for the purpose of capturing their antagonist of the night before. They found Conaway in negro house on Mr. Jerry Jones's place, about eighteen miles from town. It is reported that they ordered him out and to consider himself as their prisoner. This Conaway refused to do Whereupon Collins and Belote both fired their guns upon him, literally covering his body with bullets. He was killed instantly. His murderers, realizing what they had done, fled for parts un. known. An inquest was held over the dead man's body and a verdict rendered in accordance with the facts. Warrants were issued against Collins and Belote, charging them with murder in the first degree. The colored people in Consway's neighborhood are very indignant over the matter.

Suspicious Persons Arrested. SAVANNAH, Ga., March 20 .- [Special.] -On the arrival of the Savanuah, Florida and Western rail-way train this morning, Joseph Roderique had Robert Vogan and Carrie Armstrong arrested on the charge of being common cheats and swindlers. The circumstances of the case are as follows: Vogan brought the conductor of the train a pocket book which contained a few bills and a check for a trunk, and tried to dispose of it. The conductor thought something was wrong and asked the passengers if they had lost a book, but as none of them had he did not know what to do. When the train reached the city, he saw Roderique looking as if he were looking for something, and asked him if he had lost anything. He said he had, and named the book. He then went to the baggage office to secure his trunk and found Armstrong there trying to obtain the trunk, and had him arrested for the crime. Both men were committed

The flames were raging for an hour and a half before gotten under control, and nothing but the fortunate direction of the wind saved a more disastrons configration. Only an alley eight feet wide separated the burning building from Heg-gie's stables, and if the wind had not been blowing a gale in the opposite direction, this extensive building and those adjoining it for a hunyards up dred have been swept away. The horses in the stable were greatly excited by the roaring flames, and if the stables had caught, a wild stampede would have been inaugurated. The carriages which are kept in the second story of the building were all brought down and placed in readiness to be carried out at a moment's notice. With the exception of a few broken panes of glass, however, no damage ensued to the stables.

He has lived on this place sine Uncle Jimmie is now 78 years old, a Pre erian of the straighest see, and yet a lover of good nen of every faith. By good mausgement and in-tustry, he has amassed an estate that runs up nto the thousands. For years almost an invalid, he is now hale and hearty, and bids fair to live nuch longer. His excellent daughter, Miss Laura, ares for her venerable parent, and to both we are indebted for generous hospitality. In the afternoon we went on to Mr. J. T. Mr. H. has a pleasant home and raises much of what he consumes. His barns are ample and his stock, hence, well kept. Our young and sturdy riferd, Philip Greene, was one of the guests, Philip is one of our most practical young men, is devoted to the soil and is an example, in that respect and many others.

Ellijay Courier: A few months ago a man who said his name was Matin V. Roberts, and claiming to hail from North Carolina, came to Ellijay. Son after his arrival he was employed to put up a large storehouse for two of our most prominent and responsible merchants. He worked at low wages, proved to be a skilled workman, gained the confidence of those for whom he was working, and before many months had rolled away he sought and obtained in matrimony the hand of a most estimable young lady—a sister of the merchants above alluded to. The father of the bride, taking a fancy to his newly made son-inlaw, advanced money with which to buy a town lot and build a neat cottage. The father-in law knowing that Roberts was a shrewd fellow, and reposing the utmost confidence in him, placed three good horses in his charge and directed him to carry them off and sell them. Roberts consented, and about three weeks ago, accompanied fellow, and reposing the utmost confidence in him placed three good horses in his charge and directed him to carry them of and sell them. Roberts consented, and about three weeks ago, accompanied by a younger brother in law, whose expenses he promised to pay if he would go with him and feed, curry and waster the stock, he left for Rome, Ga. Arriving there he sold a good horse for 570, which amount he pocketed. Thinking perhaps, that Rome was too small a town for him, he pulled up takes and went to Atlanta. The gate city seemed to have accomodations sufficient for high. It is said that he exarcely came to a barroom wishout going in and taking a choice drink. He also spent a great deal of money with the hackmen and at theaters. He would buy new hat, searfs, sleave buttons, etc., and present them to his brother in-law, thus proving himself to be a very seaferous individual. As Jones livery stable in Atlanta, he held a horse in pawn for $15, from one person he borrowed ten dollars from, another a good overcoat. Just how many persons he swindled, and to what extent we can't tell. When to took his departure he left his brother-in-law in Atlanta without a cent to pay board, buy horse field or anything else. We greatly sympathize with the parties who have received such bar dreatment from this smart but thievish man. We do hope that the officers of the Law will exercise all diligence in hounding down and bringing him to Justice.

Last Friday afternoon Messrs. Doc Melton, A. W. and James Kilpatrick in Terrell county went ratbit hunting with two dogs. Several new boys have matriculated since the in-termediate examination took place, and the roll now numbers a few more than two hundred names. For the last several years the roll has thus shown in the near heighborhood of two hundred, but now that Clark county is to be free from bar-rooms, we have good ground for believing that hereafter, this number will be considerable in-

Quite a learned gentleman said to your cor Quite a learned gentleman said to your correspondent after having been shown through the college buildings: "It is a wooder to me that there are not five hundred students in attendance here. I believe," he continued, "that it is because people do not know what there is here, and what superior advantages the university offers. Why the corps of professors is not excelled in the south, and in the scientific department there are few more things that could be wanted." He went on to say, "I do not think there is a better stranged recitation room in the south than Colonel Charbonnier's, and he has in the apparatus room $15,000 worth apparatus, so that in the lecture room every paragraph discussed may be illustrated, and in the physical laboratory all these things are put to practice by the students all these things are put to practice by the student themselves." THE RAILROADS. THE LATEST NEWS FROM THEM CHRONICLED.

A Formal Demand Upon the East Tennessee for the Surrender of the Lease of the Mempais and Charleston-The Alabams Great Souta-ern-General Bailroad Points.

NEW YORK, March 19 .- A formal deman ! has been made upon the East Tennessee, Vir-ginia and Georgia for a surrender of the lease to the Memphis and Charleston. The full to the Memphis and Charleston. The full story of the complications growing out of the lease would be long but interesting to stock operators. The road is the most valuable of any in the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia system, having an important traffic of its own and being easily and cheaply operated. When the lease was made the road When the lease was made the road was bled for the benefit of the East Tennessee, lessee charging up very heavy expenses betterments and construction, thus bringbetterments and ang it heavily in debt to the lessee.

An effort was made to recover control of the road for the stockholders by an assessment, and the lessee at one time agreed to a proposi-tion for the cancellation of the lease. The stockholders, however, disagreed upon the plan for paying off the debt, and the late B. R. Stevenson, who had been its president and retained a large interest, sold out, and the scheme fell through. Just about this time, however, there was a large speculative interest held in Philadelphia, and it proved sufficient to hold the balance of power between the objecting stockholders and the East Tenmessee, and B. K. Stevenson, who held a number of proxies in addition to their own inter-est, disposed of that to General Thomas and Brice at a figure 15 to 20 per cent above the ruling market price.

Since that time, as is well known, the interest of Messrs. Thomas and Brice has been greater in the Memphis and Charleston than in the East Tennessee, and now that the road has been put in excellent condition by reason vements made upon the property of the improvements made upon the property and charged to operating expenses, they are satisfied that the company can be made to earn a dividend within a very short time. In the present condition of East Tennessee there is little hope that it will be able to retain its Alabama Great Southern.

CINCINNATI, March 19.—The Enquirer pub-lishes the following: The employes of the Queen and Crescent shops, located at Meridish, Miss., have struck for back pay. The men on the Alabama Great Southern road, a link in the Queen and Cres-cent system, extending from Chattanooga to meridian, are threatening to strike, and are greatly embarrassed financially, as they have not as yet received their pay for the month of January. The men feel very sore at the treatment they have received, as they say that the employes on the Cincianati Southern division receive their pay promptly, while those on the lines south of Chattanooga. are obliged to take their money whenever they can get it. The claim is made that they are discriminated against in favor of the em ployes of the Southern. The talk among the boys on the Alabama Great Southern is that the road is to be placed in the hands of a re-

POKER PLAYING IN TEXAS.

Henry Alexander's Experience with a Cattle Man who had Just Sold a Herd.
From the Pittsburgh Dispatch.
Shortly after the discovery at Leadville I was in that great mining camp. In less than an hour after my arival I met Henry Alexandrical whom the state of the stat der, an old friend, whom I first saw in Kansas during the flush of the Texas cattle drive. Al-exander was a cattle grower; but he was also a professional poker player, whose business calld him to the towns that spring into active life along the lines of new railroads. I lived with Alexander for three days. Every night after the games closed we drew our chairs before the fire and talked of the old times when we drove together and hunted together on the One night our talk drifted to the Texas cattle men and the gambling at the cattle towns of Kansas, when the business of driving long horned steers to the northern market was highly profitable. Alexander's eyes blazed with jury when he spoke of the Toxans. He raised his clinched hand high above his head and struck the table that stood by his side sayagely, as he exclaimed with a fierce oath:
"How I hate them!" Then turning to me he said: "When I left you on the Cimmaron river, the "When I left you on the Cimmaron river, he day after the buffalo hunt, "I went to Baxter Springs. There I met three Texans, who coaxed me to go to Ellsworth to play poker with the cattle men, who had sold herds and were flush. I agreed to go, and they on their part agreed to stand with me, and also to protect we have the Texas greatly. me in the game. You see, the Texas gentle-man you are playing with is apt to have a partner. This man, if the game is going heavpartner. This man, if the game is going heavily against his friend, is liable to step in bahind you and blow the the top of your head off. In the vernacular of the courageous Tex-ars, this is called "getting the drop on you." So I stood in with Bill Good, his brother Asham, and Tom Clavering. All had killed

"Weil, these three were to see that 'no on got the drop on me. They were to play in the game if necessary. We were to divide the win-nings. So I went to Ellsworth. I had fair luck, but had not been able to get at the men luck, but had not been able to get at the men who had made big sales. One evening while I was at supper, I received a note from Bill Good. He told me to come to a certain saloon as soon as possible, as Hutchinson, a cattle man, who had just sold a herd, was there and wanted to play poker. I went at once and was some playing with Hutchinson. The cards rangainst me, and I speedily lost a few hundred dollars. Then the luck changed, and I made up my losses and a couple of hundred dollars in audition. Hutchiason was apparently growing angry. He dealt. I picked up four aces. We had no straight flushes in those days.

I pressed the betting. There were $1,600 in the pot before the draw. I took one card, he stood pat. It was Hutchinson's bet, but before he bet so much as a chip he wrote a note and called a bootblack to him and told him to and called a bootblack to him and told him to go to another saloon and give it to his brother, "flustantly I knew he had determined to fight for the pot, and had sent for his brother to come to him, and to come heeled. I was not worried. I relied on my partner to prevent my assassination. So I shammed a fear that I was far from feeling. I made my hands tremble, made my legs shake, and I tried to turn pale; but that was not a success. Hutchinson's brother—a cool, determined man—came in and stood behind him. Then with an oath and a sneer on his face, Hutchinson leaned over the table and said, 'I bet $500,' and dropped the money in the pot. I saw it and raised him $500. I now had $1,800 of my money in the pot, about all the cash I had with me. Hutchinson drew a note book out of his pocket and took three certificates of deposit of $5,000 asch out of it. Those he indorsed. Then, 55,000 each out of it. Those he indorsed. Then, Fusion sech out of it. Those he indorsed. Then, reising himself from his chair, he sat on one side of the table and shook the three certificates ever the pet, saying the while, I bet $15,000. He almost dropped them into the pile then withdrew them, and sat gazing intently at me. I trembled away the best I could, and watched him as a hawk watches a chicken. The click of a cocking reproduct chicken. The click of a cocking revolver broke sharply on my ear. It was behind me. Then I counted two more clicks both behind

ine. "I said to myself, there is going to be trouble "I said to myself, there is going to be trouble here. Still I watched Hutchinson and trembled away quite 'cheerfully. He leaned toward me, shook the certificates in my face and said: 'The pot is mine.' I felt the cold muzzle of a six-shocter thrust against the back of my neck and another one against my right ear. I stopped feigning fear, and began to tremble in earnest. Hutchinson took' the pot and deliberately divided the money I had in it into four piles. He took one. My pals each took one. They made me stand up and disarmed me. They gave me no chance. They order They gave me no chance. They order-e to leave town within fifteen minutes. I left in three, but returned in a couple of weeks, and squared accounts with the thicking cow-men. I got my money back, and I got satis-faction.

My friend ceased talking. His yellowish gray eyes blazed with the light of battle as the sene of the day arcse before him. "Gurse the Texans how I hate them!" he repeated, and relapsed into silence.

FAMILY JARS IN POLICE COURTS. Some of the Scenes that Recur Every Day in the Year.

There are about forty complaints every day in the police courts of this city by wives against their husbands. The complaints are generally for failure of support. Not infrequently they are accompanied by charges of cruel and inhuman treatment.

sre accompanied by charges of cruel and inhuman treatment.

The complaints are atereotyped: "Judge, my husband has not given me a cent in six months." "My husband comes home drunk, and will not give me a cent." "He never keeps a situation a month." "He spends his money in liquor stores." "He gambles his wages away every Saturday." "He beats me and the children." "He calls me vile names." "He threatens to kill me." "He keeps company with another woman." "He keeps company with another woman." "He krocked me down and kicked me." "He threatens to leave the country." "He blackened my eye yesterday." "I am afraid to live with him." The stories come not alone from poverty-stricken and degraded women. They are told by women who are comely, well dressed, healthy, and even educated, as well as by the poor. Not infrequently the justice asks. "Can you get along without him?" and the woman answers, "I can support myself and my children if he will only keep away. All I want is for him to let me alone. I have worked ever since I was married, and I can work yet."

It is a common occurrence for these unfortunate wives to go to the court with babies in their arms, and to stand with the fretful infants awaiting an opportunity to tell their wo-ful tales. Sometimes they go with scarred faces and bandaged heads, mementoes of the brutal treatment of their unfeeling spouses. Often the mother-in-law brings up the rear, developing the real sources of much of the What of the fathers? "Very often they ome with besotted faces, with tattered gar-ments and grimy skins. Some come with smooth-tongued excuses. "Your honor, I am willing to support her, but I cannot bear her relations." "I struck her but she struck me first." "I did not hit her; she was drunk and fell down." "I give her all the means. I can first." "I did not me nor; she was arther and fell down." "I give her all the money II can aflord." "She left me and went to her mother's." "She has company that I do not like." "She wants me to be put out of the way so that she may misbehave." "I am willing to support her, but I will not live with her "I can't give her what I have not got."

will give her a fair share of what I earn. Sometimes the offending husband sullenly refuses to say anything, but marches off to jail. Justice Gorman said the other day to a teacher in one of the public schools who was brought before him: "In five minutes you will be in a cell unless you agree to support your wife, and furnish surety to do so." your wife, and furnish surety to do so.

The man obstinately reiterated, "I will not furnish bail," and marched off to the cell. Generally the justice uses the utmost powe of the law to compel the delinquent husbands to pay a fair share of their earnings. In many cases the man becomes alarmed at the prospect of imprisonment, and gladly gets the reired surety, either from some relative, em oyer, or friend. Even after most heartrendering tales of ill when they see their husbands behind the bars. Then they go to the justice, with eyes as tearful as before, and say: "Please let my husband out, judge; he can't earn any money where he is, and he may help me if he comes out." Then the justice utters a homily on the wrong of thus taking up the time of the court wrong of thus taking up the time of the court for nothing, and winds up by letting the man out. Sometimes the man stubbornly serves out his term of six months, only to come out of rison filled with thoughts of revenge.

Occasionally the justices find the causes of disagreement trivial. They see that there is a possibility of reconciliation, and they send the parties into one of the court rooms to talk it over. Then, as the reunited couple walk out of court arm and arm, the justice looks on smiling at the happy result.

The Home of the Blizzard.

blizzerds are ripe. Last Saturday i drove from Hinsdale, lowa, to Tabor. It was only eight miles, and it wasn't so awfully cold. Somewhere between an inch and an inch and three quarters down below the dot; but as I had breathed the balmy air of Wisconsin only a week before at 32 degrees below the belt I didn't mind a little thing like that. But Monday morning I made a drive of 12 miles across the country from Tabor to Malvern. A young student of Tabor college, Gilbert Brooks, to me down, because he knew the roads of t country and the ways of the blizzard. No when it blows out in this land it blows. doesn't stop for the cold and it doesn't stop to inquire the way. It blows a thousand miles a minute, and it it finds a snow-drift located not to suit, it just moves the drift into a new place and sweeps the old ground perfectly bare of snow. And cold? The het bricks froze to our feet, less or more. We rattled over the rough frozen roads where the ground was bare, then we would plunge into snowdrifts up to the horses' corsets, and all the time the pittiless wind sweeping all the way down from Alaska. horses' corsets, and all the time the pittliess wind sweeping all the way down from Alaska, whirled the light snow into our faces and earched out ever crevice and wrinkle in every blanket and ulster. Shade of the great white beer, but it was cold! And as far as the eye could reach across the great waite drifted prairies, the snow went sweeping, whirling into fantastical circles, rising in great gyratic columns, combing over like ocean breakers; mile after wintry mile the Arctic dance went on, and the ghostly squadrons of the frozen north went charging over these measureless plains, and ever the fierce sweep of the sibilant, hissing winds, for there is no forest here for them to sing and roar through. Time and ag in the horses turned their heads away from the fierce onset of the snow and the blast, and onfierce onset of the snow and the blast, and on ly the skillful driving of my comrade kept them in the road and "laid in the leads." The only living souls we saw in those twelve miles of storm and cold were three little counand a little girl. That's western stock for you. As we passed them the boys hailed us cheeriy: "Mister, gimme a ride!" That's boy ellower.

Then getting from Malvern to Council Bluffs. I stayed in the Wabash railway station all day, fraternizing joyously with the tramps in the common comfort of a red hot stove and waiting for a train. There were good hotels only a square away, but bless you, you couldn't have pulled me away from that stove with a stump machine. All trains late. Nothing in on the "Q," the "cannon ball' stuck in the snow down at Humeston. The belated brakeman, on a stray freight waiting for orders and a thaw, said he thought I might get down on 22, if she went on 18's time, get down the branch and meet 67 at the siding when she came up on construction as far as bridge 34, and then jump the gravel for the when she came up on construction as far as bridge 24, and then jump the gravel for the junction, and make second 16 or extra 10, he couldn't say which, as far as the slow board at the "Q" crossing, and then Leould run wild and get to the Binfl's on 2. "Two what?" says it. "Two what?" says he, and honestly I think that is the way I would have goac, if Wabish mail hadn't that wed out in time to land me in Council Binfl's, just in time to freeze my ear, which I did, walking from the opera house to the U. As the coming of a great storm is heralded by the display of cautionary signals, so is the approach of that dread and fatal disease, Consumption of the Lungs, usually announced in advance of phuples, blotches, eraptions, ulcers, glandular swellings, and kindred outward manifestations of the internal blood poison, which, if not promptly expelled from the system, attacks the delicate tissues of the lungs, causing them to ulcerate and broak down: Dr. Pierce's "Golden Madical Discovery" is the great remedy for this, as for all diseases having their origin in bad blood. It improves the appetite and digestion, increases nutrition and builds up the wasted system. Storm Signals.

An Old Letter

From the Covington Enterprise.

The following letter, sent us by W. H. Bailey, of Boston, Ga., was written by W. D. Womack, of company H. 3d Georgia Volunteers, to his young brother in Covington. It was penned during a period in the history of our country which will live in song and story in the hearts of southern people until time shall be no more. We publish it by request:

On Picker in Front of Peterreley, Va., August 5th, 1864. Dear brother: Ireceived your letter some time since, but the day I set apart to answer it. I received the unpleasant news that the Yanks had paid Covington a visit, burnt the Alcova and Yellow river bridges and torn up the railroad, pillaged the town and killed some of the citizens, thereby causing the detention of all mail matter from here to Covington. As everything is quiet around the cockade city I have concluded to pen you a few lines. On last Saturday monning, about five o'clock the yanks sprung a mine and blowed up a portion of our works and then occupying it in considerable force. At the time of the explosion our brigade was two miles on the right, but as soon of the works they had successfully blown up, our brigade and two others of the division was ordered without delay to the scene of action, and when we had arrived in close proximity to the works the yankses took possession of the works they had successfully blown up, our brigade and two others of the division was ordered without delay to the scene of action, and when we had arrived in close proximity to the works they and has since died. George Walker and E. Crowder were both shot through the thigh. Those are all of our company who were dangerously wounded, but several others were struck but not enough to excuse them from home to did escape, and if I did not kill some yankees it was not my fault, for at one time I was in less than ten steps of them. Our whole loss will not exceed one thousand. I am anxious to hear from home, but fear the news will be sad and distressing. Please have me a nice hat made as econd, but I did

A Monster Turkey.

From the Lumpkin, Ga., Independent.
Mr. Philip Simpson, the successful turkey hunter, has placed on our table ago the leg and beard of one of these fine birds. From the size of his foot he must have been one of the aborigines. The leg and foot from the knee to the end of the middle toe measure twelve inches, and the beard is eleven inches long. He was certainly tall enough to have picked the brass buttons from the cost of a West Point cadet. A peck of acorns would have just about furnished him a square meal. His weight w. s twenty-five pounds.

A Prosperous Colored Man.

From the Hawkinsville News.

Wash Key, of Dooly county, is one of the most prosperous and reliable colored farmers in Georgia. He sold twelve bales of cotton which he had stored at the Old Rock warehouse, the other day for an average of 10% cents per pound. He said that he didn't owe but sixty dollars, and this amount was due one of his children who refused to receive it when payment was tendered. Wash pays one of his children who refused to receive it when payment was tendered. Wash pays cash for his guano, and always has plenty of the precious stuff about him to enable him to pay as he goes.

The civil service rules do not seem to work well. This fact has been brought out by the circumstances surrounding the appointment of Mr. Higgins to a post in the treasury. An effort is now being made to induce Mr. Cleveland to make the rules of the civil service apply where the law has not provided for such applications.

A CHICAGO GRAMMARIAN.

As might be supposed from the stale and upprofitable condition of its editorial page day after day, the hicago Times employs a "marian" to perform the feat of contributing to its editorial columns. In a recent issue, the desperate dullness that characterives the Times is somewhat relieved by an article called forth by some remarks in THE Constitution on the proposed new pronoun "thon." The Times begins its comments in the true Chicago vein, thus: "Sees the light at Atlanta, Georgia, a newspaper (called THE Constitution) of such inflexible 'conservatism' that its conductor cannot endure the idea of growth even in the language of this blessed country." This is a very fine example of the Chicago style. "Sees the light at Atlanta, Georgia!" Nothing could be more apt than this. Unquestionably The Consti-TUTION "sees the light at Atlanta, Georgia' -it not only sees the light that is always to be found "at Atlanta, Georgia." but it enjoys the sweetness of its surroundings. This being true, and even partially admitted by the Times, why should THE Constitution be compared to a sleeping car? The Times has its receiver, and the sleeping car its "conductor," but THE CONSTITUTION has its editors and managers, who, in commen with a great many other people, see the light at, and enjoy the sweetness of, Atlanta, Georgie, and who are glad to have been instrumental in stirring the Times out of its accustomed stupidity. The Chicago paper goes on to say-still alluding to THE CONSTITU-

Among his latest troubles is the proposed nev conoun that is intended to avoid the necessity of mploying two pronouns, in order to speak gram-metically, in such a phrase as this: "Every pupil must be perfect in his or her lessons." To avoid the necessary use of both the masculine and the feminine pronoun, the proponents of the new pronoun would say: "Every pupil must be perfect in thar lessons.

The Georgia linguist considers it "safe to say that the new pronoun fills no long felt want. It is simply the haphazard outgrowth of an attempt to fit the English language to the precise and invariable methods of Latin and Greek grammar. It is intended to be a further refinement of the language to suit the needs of those whose training has given them a more intimate acquaintance with the formality of Latin methods than with the s of their own tongue." What he means by "the genius of their own tongue," the writer explains by saying that there is no such thing as English grammar, "and probably never will be, because a little comme can be made to supply its place." Then follow some illustrative examples of a little common sense. It is not necessary for the teacher having that desirable endowment to say, "Every pupi ust be perfect in his or her lessons," because "it would be better to say: 'The pupils must be per lect in their lessons;' or, better still, 'Everyon should be perfect in their lessons!' There is noth ing awkward or ungrammatical in this" use of a plural to indicate a singular subject, in the Geo gia view on the language. Perhaps the same little ing awkward or ungrammatical in such a phrase as this: "You'uns not understands the genius of the American language as we'uns understa

The hicago flavor here is unmistakable The crude clumsiness that refuses to take account of facts that would be word-builders cannot get over, and the terrific assumption of criticism could hardly be cated in this country outside of Chi-The Times, however, finds it necessary dispose of the new pronoun "thon" by een in the English dialect since Chaucer was a baby. Consequently there is no ground roversy. "Every pupil must be per-'thar' lessons," the Times says. This ald be improved to Georgian ears by saying that every pupil must be perfect in "the'r" legeons, but we do not insist on this improvement.

There is a serious side to all this nonsense for every day in our public schools and academies-where we are fortunate enough to have academies-there are a number of little boys and girls who are undergoing the agony of trying to learn so called English grammar written either by some publisher's back, or by some "professor," who (in either case) knows less about the English language for all practical purposes than the ten year-old boy who has had access to such books as Robinson Crusoe, Gulliver's Travels and the Pilgrim's Progress. There are numbers of little girls and boys all over the country who are compelled every day to write out "disgrams" on the blackboard showing how the able grammarians can compel the simplest sentences to cut as many capers as a monkey on a hot stove-all because there is supposed to be a "subject predicate" and an "object predicate," to say nothing of the "pronounial adjectives." and such things. What have little children to do with these things-or big children either, for that matter? The receiver of the Chicago Times is probably a technical grammarian. This would account for his remarkable opening "Sees the light," etc., and also for the desperate failure of his attempt to correctly employ (in the last sentence of the extract we have quoted) two colloquial English pronouns "you uns" and "we'uns." If the Times will familiarize itself with the history of these colloquialisms, it will gain a much more thorough knowledge of the English tongue than it can find in the rules and forms of any so-called grammar. We throw out the suggestion because we should be glad to see Chicago improve in respect of its knowledge of English.

A MORMON PANIC.

Within a few months nine of the Utah saints have been convicted before the federal indges on account of "celestial marriages." and are now languishing behind the bars of prisons. Such a succession of judicial blows has created a veritable panic among the polygamous Mormons, and affairs in Mormondom are in a gloomy state. Instead of challenging the federal officials to appeal to grand juries and the courts, they are now fleeing in every direction. There is scarcely a polygamous apostle or elder left in Salt Lake. Some have crossed the ocean as alleged missionaries, others are in Mexico, and still others are in concealment at home. Among the missing are President John Taylor, his counsellors ex-Delegate Cannon and Joseph F. Smith, and ten of the twelve apostles of the church. Editor Penrose, the manager of the church paper, is also among the missing It is estimated that fully 400 of the church dignitaries have fled to avoid calls from the deputy marshals. The hope is indulged in that the storm will pass away, but at present the entire array of polygamists are in mortal fear of punishment in this world.

The crusade began last fall when Judge Zane became chief-justice of the territory and Mr. Dickson district attorney. A graud jury was soon summoned, without including a single believer plural marriages, and indictments for offenses against the marital law followed as a matter of course. The indicted did not, however, anticipate conviction; but in the first case that was tried a verdict of guilty was returned through the confession of the second wife, and an elder was lodged in prison. Another saint was locked up within a week, and conviction has followed convic tion until nine occupy prison cells.

The saints can not gain safety in the adjacent territories, because their authorities are pursuing the policy that has proved so effectual in Utah. In Arizona five have been sent to prison, including three bishops. In Idaho not a polygamous saint will be left unpunished. The saints do not know where to go in this country to escape arrest andimprisonment. Their hope at present is in a reversal of some of Judge Zane's rulings by the United States supreme court. Before Judge Zane took his seat on the bench conviction was out of the question, and the Mormons claim that some of his decisions will not be upheld by the court of review. If no relief can be had at Washington, the church will be compelled to respect the national law by doing away with plural marriages. There is a movement in that direction already. The church cannot get along without its leaders, and the tabernacle plainly shows that grief and confusion have overtaken it. The situation, if sternly maintained, must result in the abolition of the objectionable feature of the church. The scaling of more than one wife must be stopped, and the wisest among the saints already see that the practice of plurality has nearly run its course. If the crusade of Judge Zane can be kept up another year, the administration will be able to announce that law is supreme even in Utah. Such a victory without bloodshed would draw out the thanks of the entire country. It is a result worth striving for. Ir would never do for the public men who, co riously enough, have identified themselves with the whisky ring, to believe that Mr. Tilden ha had a hand in recent events. It would break their manly hearts. THE dwellers along the banks of the great river elieve that they will escape any disastrous flood this year. For some time winter has been gradu ally stiding out of the lap of spring. The ice has melted by degrees, and there are no pent up tor-rents to be dreaded. There is no serious danger. The Mississippi is twenty one feet lower than usual at Vicksburg, and the Ohio is twenty-nine leet lower at Cincinnati, and eleven feet lower at

Pittsburg than last year. THE office-seekers from the north are still making things gay in Washington. But their gayety can not drive away the gloom of the officeholders who LOUISVILLE is making as much fuss over bad water as a temperance town could be expected to do. Few Louisville men will be troubled with micrococci, so long as the micrococci do not find their nidus in pie.

Or the 117 cotton seed oil mills in the United States the great majority are in the south. Many are scattered along the Mississippi from New Orlears to St. Louis. There are ten at Memphis alone. Last year the price of seed advanced and the oil feel to thirty cents a gallon, at which figure it has since remained. The oil mills have ormed a pool, and some of the mills bave sus pended on account of the scarcity of seed this season. Six mills have been built in Great Britain and a competitive market introduced. The de-mand for the oil will doubtless increase and new uses will be discovered for it. Being purely vegeta ble it must be more healthful than animal

THE amenities of journalism in Nashville are in a bad way. When the daily Union first made its appearance it abused the American because that paper refused to publish its advertisement, and when the American noticed its initial number it complained of the brevity of the notice, and at tacked the filthy character of its selected reading matter. THE Blaine organs think there must be some thing wrong when the members of the democratic cabinet refuse to ride around Washington in carrisges that belong to the people.

Young Theodory Goosemelt, of New York, has lled on the president. This shows that Goose melt isn't at all stuck up. He says the administration will be a great success; and it would be a very queer administration, indeed, if didn't suc ceed after it had been formally called on and recognized by Goosemelt.

THE faith cure is a big thing. Its possibilities appear to be unlimited. Miss Hattle Melvin, the nansger of the Faith Home in Morristown, N. J., relies upon faith to work wonders in all the affairs of life. A short time ago her wedding day was appointed, but she made no preparations for the event. To all inquiries she replied that the Lord would take care of everything and would provide her trousseau if he thought she deserved it. On the morning of the wedding day the express wagon drove up to the Faith Home and proceeded to un oad. Scores of boxes, bandboxes, parcels and packages were carried in. Miss Melvin manifested no surprise. She opened her treasures and found dresses, jewels, laces, and everything a bride would to need. Her relatives and friends and the bridegroom were in state of hazy bewilderment, but Miss Melvin was serene. She claims that it is a signal vindication f the power of faith. Some malicious and matter of fact people, however, claim that Miss Melvin's Bible class, hearing of their teacher's belief that her trousseau would be sent by a heavenly mesenger, clubbed together, purchased the wardrob and sent it in the manner described.

THEY say that Higgins, the appointment clerk of the treasury, has called for five hundred re moval blanks. This ought to satisfy those who protested against Higgins. Economy is a definite part of civil service reform.

THE New York Tribune thinks we have a British administration. In any event, it will be demo-cratic enough to make it warm for the republican ories who have been boarding around Washington at the public expense. THE old soldier racket can sumetimes be worked very successfully. In Poughkeepsie, the other night, the police locked up an old man who was ound drunk and singing the "Marseilles Hymn" in a snow storm. The next morning the recorde fined him ten dollars. The old man quietly sur veyed the crowd and asked if that was the proper reatment for a patriot who had fought all through the Mexican war under General Taylor, and brough the late civil war. The spectators tumed at once, paid the fine, and shipped the veter en to Breeklyn.

OCCASIONALLY the New York Sun strikes a cer tral truth. Recently it said: "It would be a great thing for Hon. John G. Carlisle if he could cease to be one of the pillars of the whisky interest.' An editor might write a hundred years and never write tiper words than these. The whisky ring vill ruin the prospects of any public man who is in sympathy with it, or who allows himself to be controlled by it.

NEAL Dow, the temperance agitator, has with drawn from the republican party. This able man knows that there never was a better party to get away from than the republican party.

THE New York Tribune wants President Cleve and to pick up the foreign policy that Brother Blaine left laying around loose in the state de partment when he had control there.

THE immense demand for Hugh Conway's stories may be construed as an emphatic protest against the international inanity embodied in the simpering serials of Messrs, Howells and James Hugh Conway's latest story has been sold to newspaper syndicate for $5,000, and an English paper pays $750 for the exclusive privilege of pub ishing it in one county. It is impossible to read the telegraphic column of the newspapers of the day without a shock o urprise over the number of women reported a ning to death in every section of the country Girls, matrous and old women catch on fire at their firesides, while smoking pipes, from exploding lamps, and while at work in the field. When burn to death. It seems impossible to save a woman when her dress catches on fire. Nine times out of ten she fan the flames, and preventing prompt assistance rushes wildly around, thus causing the breeze to from being rendered. Several lamentable cases have recently occurred in Georgia.

THE new administration is hunting around for a Chicago grammarian to stuff into a lucrative of fice. Thus far the search has been unsuccessful.

It is said that Senator Pendleton is a candidate for the English mission. The senator evidently forgets that his civil service law is still in opera-was no prediction at all. He said that there would be a storm accompanied by earthquakes about the middle of March. As there is an earthquake every day in the year, and always a storm in some part of the world at this season, it will be seen that there was very little room for Wiggins to make a mistake.

THE Boston Journal says that "the war between the Tilden-Randall and the Carlisle-Morrison factions is well begun." The Journal is mistaken. It is not a war between factions. It is a war of those who represent the people against the whisky ring interest which has no other object than to swindle the people and violate the law.

No MAN who proposes to wield any influence in the democratic party or among the people can af-ford to identify himselt with the whisky ring.

THE FROZEN HAND.

What Was Found in a Block of Ice at Cour d'Alene;

DEADWOOD, Dak., March 20.—[Special.]—"I wish I could find Jerome," said William Boyd, last night, to a crowd of friends in a drinking saloon. Boyd then went on to tell of an adventure at Courd'Alene. It seems that a French dancing Gour d'Alene. It seems that a French dancing master named Jerome was running a saloon at the camp. When hard times came Jerome left. So we time afterwards Boyd and his friends s-arched the deserted shanties for provisions. Under the shanty in which Jerome had sold liquor was a cellar, in the middle of which was a pite of ice. Demolishing the ice in the hope of finding some whisky hidden it it, they shattered one chunk in the middle of which was a woman's hand. It had been chopped off with an ax, apparently. The cabin was carefully searched, but nothing else was found except a handful of yellow half.

ently. The cabin was carefully searched, but nothing else was found except a handful of yellow hair.

"And here the hair is now," said Boyd, taking it out of his best. "If Jerome and I ever meet it will be the end of one of us, unless he can tell what became of the woman whose hand and hair I found in his cellar."

Just as he finished speaking a stranger entered the liquor store and walked up to Boyd and asked him how he was doing.
"Not so well since I found this," said Boyd, holding the hair in the stranger's face. And then he continued: "Jerome, I believe that you murdered that woman, and I now demand your arrest."

Jerome knocked Boyd down, ran out of doors; and escaped in the darkness. A diligent search is being made for him.

DRAKE GAINS TIME. A Georgia Hanging Which was Postponed.

THOMASTON, Ga., March 20.-[Special.]-John Drake, a young colored man who was to have been hung here to-day, for the murder of his wife, escaped the gallows through a mandamus requir ing that his case should undergo a review by the reme court.

The story of his crime is a most shocking one. He murdered his wife Ella, moved to the act by jealousy, crushed in her skull with an ax, cut her throat from ear to ear, piled the bed clothing and urniture upon the dead body, saturated it with kerosene, applied the match, and, walking off to is barber shop, felt confident that he had covered all his tracks.

The fire had been discovered and extinguished before the body had been much mutilated, by the burning, and the nature of the woman's death was revealed. Drake appeared to be greatly sur prised when told of what had happened, but the evidence against him was overwhelming. The knife and the ax, found in the house covered with blood, were in court. Blood stains were on his pants, and he had wiped the blood from his hands on the towel in his barber shop. There was great excitement and threats of lynching, but the law was allowed to take its course. The hanging is merely post-The Wheat Yield Shortened.

Baseball-Personal and General.

Macon, Ga., March 20 .- [Special.]-A diabolical attempt was made at two o'cleck this morning to wreck passenger train number 14, from Brunswick to Macon, on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad.

The train, in charge of Conductor Jack Collins, arrived at Wilcox cut, one mile below Lumber City, on time. The speed was not more rapid than usual, but fast enough to cause a serious ac cident if obstruction of the track should be met. While the conductor was making preparations to land and receive passengers at Lumber City, the occupants of the first-class coach were suddenly startled by a severe shock and the ripping noise of torn up planks. A bar of railroad on shot through the floor of the car, making an ugly hole, and tearing up three or four seats. Mr. Albert Witkowski, a drummer for M. Nussbaum & Co., of Macon, was struck on the arm and face and badly injured. Conductor Collins stopped the train, and went back to the scene of the accident. Part of a bar of iron was found lying on the track. Its position indicated that it had been placed so as to strike the engine upon the end elevated in the air. By some unaccountable movement; the engine, this was prevented, and the bar was de essed. After the engine and several cars passed safely over, the safety chain of the front trucks on the first-class coach caught the bar, elevating it, and thus it cut into the car. One-half of the bar was found lying in the coach. Tracks and other indications pointed to a das tardly attempt to wreck the train. The rails were all in place, and no other railroad iron was lying

The train strived in Macon on time. Mr. Wit the train strived in Macon on time. Mr. wie-kowski went straight to his home on Second street, and Dr. Fitzgerald was called in. He pronounced Mr. Witkowski's injuries serious, but by no means likely to result fatally. The woulded man could not be seen, having been put under the influence of morphine.

If the miscreant who placed the bar of iron on the track is caught, he will fare badly.

All the pieces were written by the pupils of the All the pieces were written by the pupils of the academy, and were played and sung with astonishing skill. Music critics could find little in either composition or execution to object to, and many of the numbers were rendered in a manner fully equal to firstrate professionals. Professor W. D. Williams is just the man for his place, and Professor Vincent (zurda, the musical director, has accomplished what one would have thought impossible. The recitations and orations were all good, some of them being delivered in a manner pathetic and cloquent.

THE COMPANY PASSES THROUGH MACON ON ITS WAY TO NEW ORLEANS-A COMPLETE LIST OF MEMBERS. MACON, Ga., March 20 .- [Special.]-The Putnam Rifles passed through the city to-night, by the Cen tral, on its way to Atlanta to act as part of the escort of the governor to New Orleans. The Putnar ifies is a gallant old command. It was organized n Fatonton, Ga., some years before the war, the lev. Dr. I. R. Branbam, of Macon, being its first aptein. It saw hard service in irginia during the war, losing four-fiths I its men. It gave to the confederacy a number f distinguished officers, among them Colonel R. Nisbet, of Eatonton. As soon after the war as cessible the company were organized. The revenue

Another Electric Wonder. MES. DIXIE HAYGOOD, OF MILLEDGEVILLE, EXHIBITS TO CROWDED HOUSES IN MACON Macon, Ga., March 20.-[Special.]-Mrs. Dixie

Haygood,"the little electric wonder,"of Milledge ville, gave two exhibitions in Macon to-day to crowded houses. She performed many of Lula Hurst's feats, and some that Lula has not yet attempted. The tests undergone by Mrs. Haygood were severe, but she succeeded admirably in most of them.

Mrs. Haygood discovered ten years ago that she could move heavy objects without apparent ef fort, and was urged by her uncle, Dr. David Clap ton, to give exhibitions. She modestly declined to do so, and yields to the suggestion now only because her friends insist. She is a small, pretty woman, with pleasing manners.

was present, and everybody came away wonder ing and delighted.

At the night exhibition Messrs. J. Marsh Johnson, H. S. Edwards, R. H. Flanders, R. H. Barron, S. E. Chamberliss, Drs. Baxter and Megrath, THE Constitution's correspondent and a number of others went upon the stage to test Mrs. Haygood's powers. She performed with ease every feat she undertook. Five men sat upon two chairs, but she lifted them all without apparent muscular effort. Umbrellas were broken, sticks were prevented from being forced to the floor, and two unusually strong men could not push her off balance, when she stood on one foot. She placed her ums, with elbows crooked, loosely against her sides, and the strongest man on the sage could not, by placing his hands under her elbows, raise her from the floor, although she weighs but 95 As to how Mrs. Haygood accomplishes her tricks, if they may be so denominated, opinions differ, but there is no gainsaying their nov elty and interest.

CHARLES M'CUNE'S WILL.

The New Management of the Buffalo

Buffalo, N. Y., March 20.—The will of Charles W. McCune bequeaths Mrs. McCune the residence on Delaware avenue and a life interest in $100,000. She is also made residuary legatee. To Mrs. L. C. Samson, of Orage, lows, sister of the deceased, it gives the income from $500,000, and her four children are also liberally provided for. George Bleistein, private sccretary and confidential manager of the Courier company, receives $20,000. The will directs that the business of the Courier company shall be continued by the executors until such time as it can be disposed of to advantage. Bequests of $2,500 each are made to Mrs. But-ler and Mrs. Ballard, of New York, sisters of Mr. McCune's first wife. The will leaves nothing to charities, but it is stated Mrs. Mc-Cune will carry out the wish of her husband, and make gifts to public institutions. At a meeting of the directors of the Courier compa-ny to-day, George Bleistein was elected president. The rise of Mr. Bleistein is remarkable. In 1876, a mere school boy, he applied to Mr. McCune for employment as an office boy. It was some days before his application received attention. Finally he was told to come to the office the following day. He went, waited nearly all day for the proprietor's appearance, but before night was hired as an errand boy. He soon became private secretary, then manager, and is now president. He is 23 years and gardeness.

THE VIRGINIA TAX CASES

The Argument Before the United States Supreme Court.

Washington, March 20 .- Five of the coupon tax cases from Virginia, Viz: Poindexter against Greenhow, White against Greenhow' Carter against Greenhow, Moore against Greenhow and Chaffin against Taylor, came up for argument in the United States supreme court this afternoon. They all present the question of the effect of the tender for taxes of coupons of the state of Virginia of March 31, 871, and the right of a Virginia tax payer to bring a suit for damages against a tax collector for levying on his property after the tender of such tax-receivable coupons In the first three cases the state collector of taxes pleads. in justification of his levy, the acts of the general assembly of January 26, 1882, and the eighteenth section of the act of April 1, 1882, and in the fifth case he pleads, in addition, the third section of the act of March 13, 1884. None of the cases are suits to compel directly the receipt of coupons by the tax collector. They are all suits to recover

They are all suits to recover damages for levy upon the property.

Wm. L. Royal, who opened the argument to-day for the bondholders, stated the point at issue as follows: "While the state of Virginia admits that she cannot repudiate her coupons outright, she claims that she may temporarily suspend their tax paying power whilst she suspend their tax paying power whilst she makes inquiry and satisfies herself that the coupons offered are really her coupons, and not some other coupons, and that pending such period of suspension she may compel the such period of suspension she may compet the tax-payer to pay his tax in coin, to be returned to him when she is satisfied that the coupons offered are really hers. The creditor denies this." Mr. Royal maintained that by the language of the state's centract, by four decisions of her own supreme court, by two decisions of the United States supreme court, the coupon was a legal tender for tax.

the coupon was a legal tender for tax.

W. S. Blair, attorney general of Virginia, who followed for the state, maintained first, the declarations and bills in all the cases were insufficient in law; second, that the courts below had no possible jurisdiction of any of them; third, that it is a fundamental principle in all sovereignties that a state cannot be sued at all, unless she consents to be sued; and that the state of Virginia had not consented to be sued in any of the modes adopted in these cases, or in any of the counts in which they the coupon was a legal tender for tax. cases, or in any of the counts in which they were brought; fourth, that the subject matter of all the suits is the collection of the public revenue of Virginia and the receipt of her coupons therefor, and for this additional reason the courts below should not have entertained them; fifth that writs of error, and appeals them; fifth, that writs of error and appeals in each of these cases should be dismissed, as the amount in controversy in each is less than $5,000, the jurisdictional sum necessary for this court; sixth, that the parties, plaintiff and defendant, are all residents of the same state, and no such constitutional question arises in any of the cases as will justify the interposition of this court.

Argument will be continued Monday.

A DOUBLE LYNCHING.

A Brother and Bister who were Charged with Com-plicity in a Nebraska Murder, Refuse to Take a Warning to Leave, and are Lynchod by a Determined Mob-E.c.

Омана, March 20.-Meager reports have reached here of the lynching in Clay county, Neb., of Elisa Taylor and her brother Thomas Jones, but not until now could the report be verified and the details obtained. The lynching occurred on Sunday morning, just before daylight, at Spring Ranch, near Fairfield. Early in January Robert Roberts, a neighboring homesteader, was shot and killed by Mrs. Taylor's sons, who are now in jail. The woman and Jones were suspected of inducing the boys to commit the murder, and they were notified to leave the county, which notification they seemed to have ignored.

As a result a crowd of probably two hundred people on Sunday morning surrounded the house of Jones, where there were seven persons, Mr. Jones, Mrs. Taylor and her daughter, a bright looking girl of five years; Nelson Cely. John Foster, alias Texas Bill, and another person named Clark and a boy whose name is unknown. As soon as the meb reached the house they demanded that Mrs. Taylor and Tom Jones should come out but instead of complying with the request the door of the house was barricaded and other means were taken to prevent a forcible entrance. Those inside were well provided with firearms, and just why they were not used by them is a mystery, as they had been purchased for just such an occasion.

After parleying for some time the men in the mob who were determined to have them cut threatened to throw a bomb of dynamite into the window. At this juncture Tom Jones asked Texas Bill if he thought it would be research Texes Bill in he thought it would be safe to go out, and was answered that it would. Thereupon Tom Jones said that he would come out, and was told by the mob to crawl out of the window, as he would not be allowed to go out of the door, and he was also told to leave all firearms behind him and crawl out with his hands up. This he did, and upon his supergrape, was impredict and the said and upon his supergrape, was impredict. he did, and upon his appearance was immedi-ately covered with revolvers and guns and was taken to one side and his hands tied with piece of rope, which was procured from some mule harness belonging to Mrs. Taylor.

Mrs. Taylor was then ordered to come out, and she too came out of the window the same way, and had her hands tied also. The men then took them into an open spot near the house, and leaving them under a guard, drew off a little way and held a consultation, which ended in Mrs. Taylor and Tom Jones being taken in one direction and the other four men who were in the house in another. Jones and Mrs. Taylor were hanged to a bridge. The bodies were left swinging there until three o'clock Sunday afternoon. An inway, and had her hands tied also. The men until three o'clock Sunday afternoon. An inquest was held and a verdict of death at the hands of parties unknown was rendered.

THE RICHMOND SENSATION.

A colorad barber at the hotel where Miss Madison stopped last Friday, was in court, and pointed out the prisoner as the man he saw come to the hotel and leave with Miss Madison the same evening. Cluverius yesterdey stated that he did not see Miss Madison at all during his visit here last week. The at all during his visit here last week. The courtroom was densely crowded, and many persons were on the sidewalk, being unable to get in. It was with great difficulty that the police could make their way through the crowd in entering and leaving the courtroom. The prisoner was remanded to jail.

HANGED BY HIS FELLOWS.

Negroes Visit Justice Upon a Murderous Companion. MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 20.—Information as been received here of the lynching near Artesia, Miss., of Jake Doss, colored, by a mob of his own race. Doss separated from his wife with a view to marrying another woman. Finally Doss went back to his wife, and a few days after, while they were crossing a bridge on the way home from Artesia, he hit her on the head with a club and killed her, the body falling into a creek. Within forty-eight hours after Doss married his paramour and went to Starksville, suspicion was aroused, and Doss was arrested in Starksville and brought back to Artesia. The same night a body of 200 or 300 colored men surprised and bound the officer who had Doss in charge, and secured the murderer, took him to the trestlework on the railroad and hanged him. A MARSHAL MISSING. A Federal Official Disappears, Leaving a Shortage Behind Him. RICHMOND, Va., March 20.—United States Marshal R. R. Hughes, of this district, disap-peared more than a week ago, and his whereabouts is unknown. An investigation of the books in his office shows an apparent shortage of from $4,000 to $5,000. It is rumored that he has gone to Manitoba, where he has an aunt, who is in affluent circumstances, and whom he has visited at various times. Nothing in Marshal Hughe's actions since his appointment more than three years since his appointment more than three years ago sflords ground for the belief that he has done wrong, although his office business is said to have been very loosely conducted, and his books to be in a very unsatisfactory condition. He came originally from Mecklonbug county, where he has a wife and several children.

New York, March 20.—The death of George W. Burnham, the Connecticut millionaire, who gave to New York the statue of Daniel Webster, removes a prominent reature from New York business circles.

His last illness smacks of romance. He was 82 years old and was of a robust constitution. He had been lingering between lite and death for two days, and was entirely unconscious during the last 36 hours of his life. When the end came he was attended only by his im mediate family and Miss Kate Sanborn, his affianced bride, none of whom he had receptized for two days.

It is understood that by the codicil made to his will with the approval of his sons, a provision of $150,000 was made for Miss Sanborn. Mr. Burnham had known her scarcely a year, but his devotion to her was great.

Miss Sanborn is deeply affected by the death of Mr. Burnham, and has alluded with much distress to the fact that his illness was brought on while waiting in the chill of the evening for her. She is a grandniece of Daniel Webster, and is well known in literary circles. Her father, Dr. E. D. Sanborn, formerly of St. Leuis, was for many years professor of belles letters in Dartmouth college. Miss Sanborn is the author of several books. One "The English Poets," is used as a text book. ASSAULTED IN THE DARK.

Mr. S. W. Facon, While Going Home Last

A most cowardly assault was made upon Mr. S. W. Bacon last night.

Mr. Bacon clerks at Wyly & Greene's, on Alabama street. He resides at 210 South avenue, and is a quiet, inoffensive gentleman.

Last night after completing his day's work Mr. Bacon started home on foot. His course was out Washington street to Peters and up Peters to South avenue. He made the trip to Crumley street without incident. Just as he reached Mr. Bellingrath's residence he passed a man who was standing in the shadow of the house. Mr. Bacon paid no attention to the man, as he was evideutly trying to conceal himself. Immediately after Mr. Bacon passed the man a large rock came whizzing by his head. The rock was hulled with great force and as Mr. Bacon wheeled about to see from whence it came a second rock was trown at him. He saw that the rocks were thrown by the man he had bassed but a second before. The street was deserted and Mr. Bacon was usarmed but he deeded to grapple with his assailant. He made a leap towards him, but the man turned about and ran. Mr. Bacon followed, and the chase lasted some distance. In the race Mr. Bacon saw that his assailant was a white man. Stocks as Reported in the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, March 20.— The feature of to-day's market was heavy trading in Pacific Mail, accompanied by further decline in the stock of 4% per cent, the complications arising out of a fight be tween the Pacific railroads and of the intention to discontinue the subsidy paid by the railroads to that company was further augmented to-day by a similar notice from the Central Pacific. Unless another arrangement is made, the company will lose its $95,000 monthly subsidy. There has been Zenvy selling for short account, but it is believed to night that a number, jucluding some of the directors, who were heavy holders of Pacific Mail stock, have also unloaded. The stock has declined about 11 per cent in the past three days, 80,000 shares of the stock was sold to day. The general market opened strong and in the first hour made light gains, the bulls being aided by a disposition of the bears to realize profits. With this check to the general decline the market became dull and prices remained steady. Atter the first hour Lackaranna closed % percent lower; Texas Pacific % per cent. Notwithstanding the weakness in these stocks Vanderbilts and Grangers were remarkably strong, although they yielded a fraction in the la Louisville and Nashville % per cent higher. The

MANCHESTER, March 20-Cloth quiet and withut quotable change in prices. Yarn steady with out little doing. The Guardian, in its commercial article says: There is a more cheerful feeling in the market. The inquiry was slightly more active, and was freely met at previous prices. There was no attempt to obtain an advance. The position of producers is not much improved. The better outlook is due' more to the pacific aspect of foreign affairs and the upward tendency of eastern exchange.

NEW YORK, March 20-The Post's cotton market'report says: Future deliveries, up to 2:15 p. m. have been quiet. Prices at first declined 2@3-100, but the loss was recovered. Total sales up to 2:15 p. m. were only 16,500 bales, including 100 bales October at 10.79 at the third call; bids made were at vesterday's closing prices. Futures closed dull at about yesterday's closing prices.

THE CHICAGO MARKET. Features of the Speculative Movemen a to

By telegraph to The Constitution. CHICAGO, March 20-In a general way the lead ing articles in to-day's market were stronger and short covering, and was induced by yesterday's decline and continued reports of damage in win ter wheat districts. There was a little-less activity and a shade more settled feeling in provisions Wheat opened a little firmer and kept up fairly well through the morning session, fluctuating within ic. Outsiders bought fairly, and local shorts covered in probably 2,500,000 or 3,000,000 bushels. There is a widespread feeling of nervous ners in the market. June is well traded in. Both the principal futures declined sharply soon after the opening on higher consols, but recovere quickly on short covering, and at 1 o'clock closed about stendy. No. 2 spring sold at 77%c. Corn continues steady with fluctuations con fined to narrow limits, and responds rather slowly to the varying moods of wheat, on which the tone of the market largely depends. To day there was only a moderate business done, and no particular only a moderate business done, and no particular features developed. No. 2 cash sold at 40c. Futures closed steady at 1 o'clock.

Oats continue generally heavy and quiet. A ittle spurt of activity followed a purchase of 60,000 bushels of May at 31½c, but when it was later sold at 31½c the market broke off to 31½c. Provisions were again active, and in a general way made a recovery from peterdar's break. At the opening, pork was steady at a shade over the closing prices of the day before, but prices rapidly fell 12½c and from this point there was short covering enough to advance it 20c; but this was not sustained. The close of the morning session was steady at prices not price and prices of the morning session was steady at prices not greatly changed from opening quotations.

Both clubs played at their strongest and best, with full teams, and the victory was with either. To have played the Louisville to 6 to 6 in 16 innings in a fair and square game, is glory enough, but it must be said that the Atlantas played in bad luck, and they outplayed Louisville at every point—their errors were costly and the chances all turned against them. Wolf's chance hit over the fence gave Louisville three runs in a walk, while a further ball by Cahill of the Atlantas gave only two bases. ew Gee Haw. The game was opened by a three bagger by Cahill for the Atlantas, but neither club scored for the first two innings. In the third inning Atlanta failed to score, Louisville got two men on bases, (one on passed balls) and Wolf want to bat. Two men were out and Wolf had made two strikes. His third strike put the ball over the right field fence, which last season entitled the runner to only two bases. The rule not having been made this year, the three men came in at a trot before the ball was found. The fourth inning opened with a tremendous hit by Cleveland on which he made a clear home run, scoring the first blood for Atlanta. TRE Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION. To be Held in Atlanta in May-An Important Convention. The Young Men's Christian association is ow recognized as one of the aggressive Cnristian forces of to-day. Associations now exist throughout the world. At the last interna-tional convention, held at Milwaukee, Wis.in 1883, Atlanta was chosen as the seat of the twenty sixth international convention of Young Men's Christian associations. The con-vention will last four days—from May 13th to 17th. Atlanta thus becomes a nost important point in the association world.

It is expected from six to seven hundred delegates will be present from all parts of America and from several portions of Europe.

These delegates will include active Christian workers of all denominations, and will constitute one of the largest and most enthusi astic bodies of lay workers ever assembled.

astic bodies of lay workers ever assembled.
Forty-one years age, in the city of London, George Williams, with a few fellow clerks, organized the first
Young Men's Christian association. To-day there are three thousand such erganizations cattered throughout the world. About one thousand are in the United States. The membership in these associations reaches two hunbership in these associations reaches two hundred and fifty thousand. Mr. Williams, now a wealthy merchant in London, still lives to see and enjoy the stupendous results of his organized effort to reach young men. He is as enthusiastic as ever in the work and is its most liberal supporter in Europe.

Atlanta was visited a few days ago by Hon. George McFarlane, president of the Glasgow association, Scotland. With a population of 700,000 the association at that place has a central building and four branches. The religious tral building and four branches. The religious work is carried on upon a marvelously large scale. For instance, they have 200 Bible studies per week with an attendance of 4,000.

The Scotch people stand pre-eminent as "knowing the Scripture."
Atlanta being the gate city

Atlanta being the south of the south and taking the lead in manufactures and commercial enterprise, also leads in this work. It but remains for the young men to have a home of their own in which to work for their fellows, and no doubt the generous hearted citizens of Atlanta will provide this for the association.

The convention will be royally entertained as the hospitality of the Atlanta people is proverbial throughout the country. verbial throughout the country.

MR. MATT RYAN BEFORE THE CITY COUNCIL ON CHARGES.

The General Council Convenes for the Trial of Mr.
Mait Byan, thief of the atlants Fire Deparament—The Time for the Trial Discussed and Fixed for Tuesday—Etc.

The general council convened in called session last night.

The meeting was called yesterday afternoon by Mayor Hillyer. The call was based upon the request of Mr. Stockdell, the chairman of the board of firemasters, and had for its object the investigation of charges recently preferred againt Matt Ryan, chief of the fire department.

Mayor Hillyer called the meeting to order, and Messrs. Stockdell, Cooper and Gramling, of the aldermanic board, and Messrs. McAfee, Middlebrooks, Kutz, Garrett, Beatie, Mangum, May, Van Winkle, Rice and Mahoney answered the roll call.

Mayor Hillyer stated the object of the meeting as set forth above. "Are there any charges against Chief

Ryan?" asked Mr. McAfee. "If so, let us proceed with the trial." "I don't suppose the council is quite ready to preceed with the trial," said Mr. Steekdell, "I thought this meeting was called for the purpose of here."

"I don't think there is any use," said Mr. McAfee, "to defer the trial. If the prosecutor is not here it is not our fault." Messrs. Haygood and Martin appeared as attorneys for Chief Ryan. Mr. Haygood said that he was hardly ready for trial. The witnesses had not been subponed. The most of them were firemen and he had been retained only this afternoon. He did not feel suthorized to issue subpenses to them. The charges against the chief were read. The letter was as follows:

The letter was as follows: HOW IT READ. ATLANTA, March 20, 1885.—To the Honorable Mayor and General Council of the City of Atlanta: Solver and determ council of the city of Amana. Gentlemen—Information having been received by members of the board of fire masters that Matt Ryan, chief of the fire department, has, upon several occasions, been guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer holding the posstion he does, it has been my duty, as chairman of the board, to prefer charges against Chief Ryan, which I now do as follows:

First. That on the evening of the 11th day of February last Matt Ryan, chief of the fire department, was so far intoxicated that a prominent citizen had to put him in a bugy and drive him to the Layden house fire, and that after arriving them his conduct was such as 6 convince prominent. there his conduct was such as to convince prominent citizens that he was under the influence of liquor and not competent to perform properly the cuties of his office. That when his attention was politely called to some natters regarding the fire,

HE REPLIED IN A MANNER unbecoming his office.

Second, That during the James bank fire, on morning of the 18th inst., the said Ryan was nomorning of the 18th inst., the said kyan was no-fied that the store building of Messrs. A. Fuller & Son was on fire, and that he paid no attention to said notice, but refused to send assistance, although several firemen were stand lag idle at the time. If was the duty of the chief to investigate this notice, or the dure it was the dure of the chief to investigate this notice, or have it done at once the same as if an alarm had been turned in, and failing or refusing to do so her was guilty of conduct unnecoming his office. Third. That on frequent occasions the said Ryan has been seen under the influence of liquor to such an extent as to impair his usefulness as chief of the fire department. Respectfully submitted.

(Chairman of Board Fire Masters, The COMMITTER NAMED.

Mr. Stockdell arose and said: "The prose ntion have been notified that the charges will not be investigated to night. It is impossible to get them here now. Let us set the time for trial. There is no one here who furnished the nformation. They thought the meeting was alled to formulate charges and set a time for "Mr. Fuller preferred these charges," said Mr. Kutz. "Is he present? What action shall we take?"

"In order to give the parties concerned," said Mr. May, "time to prepare, I move that the trial be set for Thursday night next at 7:39

"I desire to amend Mr. May's motion," said Mr. Cooper, "by having the chair appoint a committee to formulate the charge." committee to formulate the charge."

"This is no child's play," said Mr. McAfee.
"They ought to have been here. The defense is here and we ought to proceed."

"I had no idea," said Mr. Garrett, "for what we were convened until 1 came here. Let's hear the charges again."

ignated next Thursday night as the time.

Mr. McAfee wanted the trial set for Monday hight, immediately after the next meeting of the general council.

Mr. Stockdell objected to putting the trial off too long, declaring that it was an injustice to the chief if he was innocent and a wrong to the city if he was guilty.

Mr. Beatie objected to the trial taking place immediately after the regular meeting of the council. He thought it would burden the day's work. He suggested next Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock as the time. Mr. Haygood said he was anxious for an early rial, and would be satisfied with next Tuesday

This ratio of reduction can probably be extended through the country. You know that the attorney seneral has already decided to have no assistant district attorneys. In the postoffice department it has been decided to heavily reduce the number of postoffice inspectors, and I should not be surprised if the democrats do not reduce the office-holding force twenty per cent within a year or two. As to changes at present only vacancies will "Yes, the president and his cabinet feel sure force twenty per cent within a year or two. Mr. Bonner lives in Macon and no one is better known than he. Strangers can rely upon the statement he makes:

In August, 1881, it was discovered that my son's wife was in the last stages of consumption. She was coughing incessantly, and times would discharge quantities of pus from her lungs, could not sleep or retain anything on her stomach, and we thought it only a question of time when life would be compelled to give way to the fell destroyer. After all other remedies failed, we got

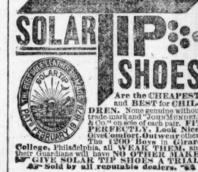

Brewer's Lung Restorer

And began it in very small doses, as she was yery weak. She soon began to improve; continued the remedy and was restored to life and health, and is to-day better than she has ever been before. I regard her restoration as nearly a miracle, for which she is indebted to BREWER'S LUNG RESTORER.

Dear Sir: I was informed by a friend of some of the miraculous cures that your Bradfield's Female Regulator had performed and persuaded to buy a bottle and it has helped me so much, and I feel so greatly improved everyway that I shall keep up its use until fully restored, which I am sure will not be long off. I have been an invalid for the past four months and during the time have been treated by three physicians, and I can truthfully say your Regulator has done memore good than all the Medicine I have even TAKEN COMBINED ! [I] only write; this to let you know how much good your great Female Rem done me, and I expect to tell all other suffering women to use it for it is "our BEST FRIEND," and does all you claim for it. Respectfully yours,

SPRING GROVE, Fla., January 18, 1885.

In the senate, Mr. Hawley, rising to the privilege, called attention to the fion from the Congressional Record of the remarks made by Mr. Van Wyek, day, detrimental to the members of the American commission, which omis maid, rendered the subsequent remarks semantar somewhat unmenting.

American commission, which omis said, rendered the subsequent remarks sonators somewhat unmeaning.

Mr. Van Wyck explained that he had out some parts of his remarks, after of ion with Senator Vest, as a matter, of feeling, and not because he thought wrong in his assertions.

A very lively debate ensued, durin Mr. Van Wyck introduced a formal redirecting the official reporter to reput proceedings of yesterday.

Mr. Teller made a spirited defense administration, which was incident sailed yesterday by the senator from N. He had decided not to pay any atter the remarks of yesterday, since the had told him he would strike them for record, but now the senator reiterate.
